

Impact of Floods in Central Vietnam

Annex F to NPA Strategic Partnership Flexible Funding proposal to support flood victims in central Vietnam

Residents of Thua Thien Hue province travelling by boats to escape rising floodwater.
11 October 2020. Photo by VnExpress/Vo Thanh.

 801K***
AFFECTED PERSONS

 66.5K***
PEOPLE
EVACUATED

 111***
DEAD

 22***
MISSING

 160K***
AFFECTED HOUSES

 14.7 KM***
AFFECTED ROADS

 112.8K
HECTARES OF
LAND DAMAGED
OR DESTROYED

 362***
AFFECTED SCHOOLS

 26.3 KM***
COASTAL LANDSLIDE

 462K
LIVESTOCK
LOST

Source: ASEAN Coordinating Centre for Humanitarian Assistance Situation Update No. 3, with estimates from the Vietnam Disaster Management Authority.

21 October 2020: 60-year-old Ms. Le Thi Nghia (right) and 79-year-old Mr. Le Dinh Di (below) are living in Linh An village in Quang Tri province. Both are survivors of explosive ordnance accidents. Their houses were submerged under nearly one meter of floodwater. Mr. Di lives alone, so is particularly vulnerable during the disaster.

A primary school in Khe Sanh town is attended by 64 young children (22 girls and 42 boys) of the Van Kieu Bru ethnic minority. The school has received over NOK 110,000 of damage to its buildings according to an estimate from the principal (pictured right), and the children have lost their textbooks and classroom furniture.

---

Mr. Nguyen Van Tram lives in Cam Tuyen commune, Quang Tri Province. Four of his five children are severely impacted by Agent Orange. The family's house was submerged in floodwater for days, and Mr Tram is not able to go to work to provide for his family.

Huc Semi-Boarding Secondary High School, in Ta Nuc village in Quang Tri province, accommodates 320 school children (160 girls and 153 boys). It was severely damaged after a landslide caused by torrential rains, and part of the structure has collapsed. Over 80 school children are now without shelter because of the damaged facilities, and they have lost all of their textbooks and other school supplies as well as much of their clothing.

The house of NPA technical survey team members Mr. Pham Thanh Trung was severely flooded and all his electrical appliances, clothes and crops were destroyed. In the photo below, he stands outside his house in Dong Ha city, Quang Tri province. The high water mark is over two metres high.

Mr Hoang Thang is a member of an NPA technical survey team. His house in Quang Tri town was submerged in 1.5 meters of floodwater. His mother is a survivor of an explosive ordnance accident, and his son has cerebral palsy. His wife stays at home to care for their family, so Mr Thang is the only income provider in the household.

